Description

This course is an introduction to Italian Medieval Art through a deep exploration of the historical, political and cultural evolution of central and northern Italy between the 5th and the 14th centuries. The aim of this class is to investigate the rich artistic output of Italy from the Dark Ages to the end of the Middle Ages, attentively focusing on artistic patronage and scholastic learning. This overview is not confined to works of art but includes the historical, social, cultural, political and patronage issues that affected the style of the Italy's most important Medieval artists.

Emphasis is placed on understanding painting (with mosaic and illuminated manuscript), sculpture (with goldsmith's art, metalwork and ivory), architecture (with urban design) within broad cultural and historical contexts. Attention is focused on the way art evolved in the most important artistic centers of Italy and on the ways that Italy's regional diversities during this period created a range of distinct styles and "schools". The course ends with the investigation of new pictorial modes emerging before 1350.

The course, largely taught on-site, is divided into four different parts: the first analyzes the historical and social background of the end of the Roman Empire; the second deals with the Dark Ages in Italy and analyzes the evolution and apex of the Italian Romanesque Age, ending with a focus on the political and artistic rivalry between Gibelline and Guelph towns. The third part highlights the beginnings of the Middle Ages, attentively observing the most important achievements of the Italian Gothic Age. The fourth part consists of an analysis of the end of the Middle Ages and the growth of the Italian "Signorie" (Lordships).

Course Requirements

Class Participation: Successful progress of the program depends on the full cooperation of both students and faculty members—regular attendance and active participation in class are essential parts of the educational process. Students are required to gain a first-hand knowledge of the major monuments and artworks treated during the course. It is therefore essential that they participate in class and on-site visits. Students are required to fulfill reading assignments, looking assignments and written assignments (approximately 30 to 40 pages per session), and are encouraged to be active in class. Discussion is an important part of this course and students are expected to express their thoughts and perceptions and to develop a critical response to the material under consideration. Attendance at and participation in all class meetings and site tours are mandatory.

Looking Assignments: Each week, students complete Looking Assignments, which are intended to give them the opportunity to look at and study works of art independently. These written assignments consist of a series of critical descriptions, notes, observations, and sketches, and are submitted to the instructor twice over the course of the term.

Oral Presentation: Students choose their favorite Looking Assignments and present it to their classmates. Presentations must be polished and make good use of multimedia resources.

Exams: There is a midterm and final exam, each of which is comprehensive and includes slide tests, short answer questions and longer essay questions.

Methods of Evaluation

The final grade is determined as follows:

10% Attendance and participation

15% Looking Assignment 1

15% Looking Assignment 2

30% Midterm exam

30% Final exam
